Fostering In Islam

Islam has a rich tradition of fostering and adoption. The Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) himself was raised by his grandfather and his paternal uncle as a young child. Later, he became an adoptive father himself.

Fostering is very important in Islam so much so that the beloved Prophet Muhammad did this himself and also encouraged others to help. There are countless rewards and blessings to be a foster carer and being there for a child who is in need of help, support and a loving home is truly rewarding. Fostering a child is to be encouraged in our Muslim Community and therefore we are asking for you to come forward to offer a loving home to children in need.

Many people may not realise that by fostering a child they are following a Sunnah of the beloved Prophet Muhammad (PBUH).
